

Quintessence, Between Two Silences

1st

In the beginning there was Silence
How it was, it will be again
Coal - Calm has wings
Comes and flicks for me

2nd

I gave my heart to sadness
'Cause it tastes fine
as summer night
It used to be my enemy
but nowadays sadness is my brother There's no order
in this world
Time couldn't exist without measuring Wishing for things
gives bare pain Thou, the longest road
who could feel your load?
Who could be
free messiah of his fate Terrific Silence lurks behind my forehead That's how I step across the threshold of tomorrow In vain is the Feast
in our calm yard Heavy clouds
overcast the sky

3rd

In the beginning there was Silence
How it was, it will be again
Coal-Calm has wings
Comes and flicks for us
