Radical Face, Haunted

I can hear the car As it rumbles up the driveway But I'm too scared to look, So I curl up beneath the window And I pray they won't find me And I pray that I'll keep still

I see your face in the glass
With branches growing from your mouth
You wear the moon like a halo
You wear the night like it's your coat
And you're always laughing
But you always look afraid
I think we're haunted

Hands against my eyes I hear you crying in your sleep

I think we're haunted (Clouds are coming down the chimney) That we're never alone (And trees are growing through the living room) I think we're haunted (The moon is stuck in the ceiling) That we're swimming through ghosts (The rain is pouring on the dining room table) Yeah I think we're haunted (The vines are growing up and down the walls) That we're never alone (The water's flooding on the kitchen floor) I think we're haunted (The woods are all taking it back We've overstayed our welcome It's time we were gone)
