

Rain Fell Within, Burned Away

She glitters in the mist, and colors fills my eyes.
I'm waiting for the sun to rise.
It was so long ago when she last showed her face
I almost thought she burned away...
Burned away, and let me lifeless...
Scattered into the horizon

I'm waiting for the sun to rise
and take my breath away She disappeared some years ago, after a violent rain She took a thousand souls with her and here I still remain Not sure if I'm alive or dead, and I don't really care

Oh I can see her now shine through the clouds like heaven
and only for me
And i can feel her now
pierce through my heart with her fire
and burn me away
Oh I can see her now
shine through the clouds like heaven
and only for me

Leave me lifeless
Make me one with the horizon
I feel the sand beneath my feet, the tide caress my skin I hear the waves crash on the shore, and here I feel at peace Her warmth beats down upon my face and causes me to grin Rich tapestries of blue and red, she paints across the sea

Oh I can see her now
shine through the clouds like heaven
and only for me
And I can feel her now
pierce through my heart with her fire
and burn me away
Now, I am one with her
my heart is filled with fervor
and I burn away

I am amongst the mist and color fills my my eyes and slowly I begin to rise
It was long ago that I last felt alive
I should have known that I had died

Oh I can see her now
shine through the clouds like heaven
and only for me
And I can feel her now,
cut through my heart with her fire and burned me away
Oh I can see her now
shine through the clouds like heaven
and only for me

Now I am one with her
my heart is filled with fervor
and burned away.