

Rainbirds, A Waltz For Jane

there`s a big house on the mountain and a garden with a tree there`s a husband and some children but they don`t belong to me there`s a dirtroad to the valley where the horses can run free and a mustang and a driver who can take us to the sea there`s a big heat on my balcony and i feel lonely as can be so i walk down to the market shady place through a crack upon the ceiling we have just a scanty light so it won`t be too revealing when i dance a waltz for jane my waltz for jane
there`s a big light
in a big sky
`pon a big dream
when it comes true
this town will never look the same
in a big sky
`pon a big dream
when it comes true
this town will never look the same there`s a big light in the sky and i know why it shines on me `cause my next step is forever and my next turn sets me free a waltz for jane
my waltz for jane
there`s a big light
in a big sky
`pon a big dream
when it comes true
this town will never look the same
in a big sky
`pon a big dream
when it comes true
this town will never look the same