

Rainbirds, Moon

here you are sporting those tiny pearls of pleasure on your ears and in your hair sometimes they`d flow from your eyes like tears i used to pick the up and hoard them as a measure of how alive you where that night and yet how close to the end i`d wrap`em up and shoot`em to the moon
and if we try now just a little harder we can go up there and paint another
moon
(moon-moon all your light upon me) i used to help you light up all the scented candles yeah you wre well aware of all the ghosts that would stare at you since you became the only ghost inside my room inside my heart there`s perfume in the air no matter if it`s day or night but if you want me to
moon
(moon-moon all your light upon me)
