

Rakoth, Diamond angel

The solitude falls so heavy on me
And loneliness leaves no salvation
Wonderful face I desire to see
I cannot resist desperation

But like spark in the dark there's an image inside
Diamond Angel is coming again
The memories strike and nowhere to hide
I'm screaming in pleasure and pain

Heart of steel is inside of her beautiful chest
And no kindness - it's just iron will
And her soul is a diamond, I fall from the crest
Realizing that love is unreal

Seeing light of her eyes I cry out her name
I'm in fever but light is ice cold
Feeling warmth of her smile I know false is the flame
And her feelings can't be unfold

But someone will come... And in pain she will drown...
And desire for her will be real
And the diamond will break... And the steel will melt down...
And the suffering of love she will feel