

Rasputina, The Humanized Mice

Spoken:

He says, "What we're really worried about is creating some sort of creature that would be fun

Grotesque mutations have been reported.

Certainly, if the mouse stood on its hind legs, if it stood on its hind legs and said, 'Hi, I'm Mickey!' w

We are moving rapidly into a post-Darwinian era, an era when species will no longer exist. Once th

A 60 million-year-old mouse that had a rare and poisonous bite?

The humanized mice?

They will have to explain themselves.

What if the human mind somehow got trapped inside of a sheep's head?

What if - What if - What if

Although constitutional prohibitions against slavery prevent the patenting of people, some of my be

Topping seasonal wishlists, uncertainties about the health and lifespan of clones persist. On the un