

Ray LaMontagne, Burn

Oh mama don't walk away
I'm a goddam sore loser
I ain't too proud to stay
But I'm still thinking 'bout you
And I'm so lonesome without you
And I can't get you out of my mind Oh mama don't leave me alone with my soul sat down so tight it's like a stone cold tomb Ain't it clear when I'm near you I'm just dying to hear you Calling my name one more time
Oh so don't pay no mind
To my watering eyes
Must be something in the air
That I'm breathing
Yes'n I try to ignore
All this blood on the floor
It's just this heart on my sleeve that's a bleeding
Oh mama don't walk away
You leave me here bereaving from the words so hard and plain Saying the love that we had was just selfish and sad
To see you now with him
is just making me mad Oh so kiss him again just to prove to me that you can an I will stand here and burn in my skin
Yes I will stand here
and burn in my skin
