

Raydio, A Woman Needs Love

"A woman needs love, just like you do
Don't kid yourself into thinking that she don't
She can fool around, just like you do
Unless you give all the loving she wants
Don't make the mistake of thinking old-fashioned
Times have changed from yesterday
No longer will those old double-standards be accepted by the women of today
So when you thinking you're fooling her, she just might be fooling you
Remember, if you can do it, she can too
Because a woman needs love, just like you do
Hey, don't kid yourself into thinking that she don't
She can fool around, just like you do
Unless you give her all the loving she wants
When her eyes are begging for affection
Don't put her off, don't make her wait
Don't try to give her that worn-out excuse about being tired and working late
I'll tell you- one day you'll come home early from work
Open up the door and get your feelings hurt
Because she needs it, just like you do
A woman's got to have have it, just like you
And if you're smart, better stop fooling around
'Cause she will, too
Just like you do
Thinking that she don't
Just like you do
Now, and example to you: By the time poor Jack returned up the hill
Somebody else had been loving Jill
A woman needs love, just like you do
Hey, don't kid yourself into thinking that she don't
She can fool around, just like you do
She will fool around, so you'd better take out some insurance and be sure she won't
Give her some love
That sweet, sweet love
She wants it, just like you
She can fool around, and she will fool around
With you or without you, just like you do
A woman needs love, just like you do
