Reckless Kelly, Broken Heart

You're hiding from love You see you don't need it But if that were true You could take it or leave it

Well you gotta learn to walk But you're afraid of fallin' Off the line like a shot Then it's back to crawling

How can it stop if you won't let it start I build it up and you tear it apart It's so hard to love a girl with a broken heart I love a girl with a broken heart

You still lickin' your wounds And girl you're no stranger To blood, sweat and tears And a heart scared from anger

We got a love that you find Maybe once in a lifetime But you can't hide From from a memory of the first time

How can it stop if you won't let it start I build it up and you tear it apart It's so hard to love a girl with a broken heart I love a girl with a broken heart

How can it stop if you won't let it start I build it up and you rip it apart It's so hard to love a girl with a broken heart I love a girl with a broken heart