

Reckless Kelly, Walk Out Now

If you walk out on me now just remember that I'm a stubborn son of a bitch and you won't be welcome back I won't eat my pride for you If you know me like I think you do, you must know that I'll cut you no slack Even if I need you Even if I am blue

'Cause you should know that I won't bow to you I won't kiss your ass like you want me to
If you won't put your trust and faith in me
Do you realize what this space might bring
I won't back down
If you walk out now
Walk out now

You try and tell me I'm the one-the one responsible for all your little problems You say you feel the time has come We both know it's not my fault when the time's come for you to come back crawlin' and I've got some words of wisdom for you:
Do unto others as you've had done to you

And you should know that I won't bow to you
I won't kiss your ass like you want me to
If you won't put your trust and faith in me
Do you realize what this space might bring
But I won't back down
If you walk out now
Walk out now
