

Red Bridge, Where The Storm Begins

Sometimes on the afternoon
Looking through the shield of glass
I wonder how it everything Happened to us in this world
Isn't it strange that human who's the lord of earth, he's fight Against the nature in the race
With all his science and machines built full of power, he's Always finished on last place
What a mother nature gave for all Man without thinking take it
For his own need, the destination approach
You will not, can't escape from it Isn't it strange that human who's the lord of earth,
he's fight Against the nature in the race
With all his science and machines built full of power,
he's Always finished on last place
Thunder and lightning has falling on your sins
the greatest judgement from place where storm begins when the sun comes and emerges out the clouds it just calm before the storm you can't forget about tomorrow sun can change into big black hole and life - giving rain cover all by foam
the greatest judgement from place where storm begins
