

Reffer, Polish

You disguise yourself in fake smiles
That i have learned
Just not to respond at all
I feel sorrow when i see naive ones repaying you
Restless, uneasy
Obsessed and greedy
You made me count much on you
Great intentions planned
Then let me down
You capture me telling over
That the flowers after spring will never fall
Could i be deceived again?
Not by any chance
Can't you see you'd have to change to have someone you trust?
Someone to be your friend by your side
Cause i know you'll need to find someone some time
To lean on
That's all we're looking for...
You're always polishing the most precious stone
Determined to stare beyond a misty horizon
Sewing in gold the cheap steel
Too bad your brightness blind my eyes
There's no point anymore
Everything's predictable now