

Refused, Burn It

another page in a history book - another line to justify the land we took another page in a history book - another lie to forget the lives we took history repeats itself in another second exploitation for generations - we just don't get it burn it - burn this lie down burn it - no more enslavement burn it - burn this history page burn it - just burn it human life is still worth less than possession of power we are the slaves of today under fascist co-operation structure to maintain the awareness and civilization we made the lands we plundered and the cultures we raped we are all a part of progression - the victims of a capitalist system just statistics in history books that glorify the mass-murders and the genocide's what we have changed - what we have accomplished in our strife for equality oppression rules - money controls in a world where war is still economically beneficial for those in power in a sexist, homophobic, racist existence we still fight for freedom...
