Refused, Untitled

free from myself, my surroundings, my teachers what have they made of me? an image of man, I never set out to be a hollow shell of happiness, the real truth lies inside I've tried to break this cage, I've really tried beautiful outside, and ugly inside or is it the other way around? a reflection of rejection I will not not play your game your definition of beauty is just too insane. Try to break free, from what captures me Try to set free, what's inside me