

Remedy, No Secrets

(Anderson/Meyer)

Are you believing what they tell ya
Are you swallowing their lies
They say you should be happy
Deep inside you cry
They are deceiving, when they tell ya
Things'll always work out fine
They hope you are not able
To see between the lines

You must believe, you must believe, you must believe it
There are no secrets anymore
There are no secrets anymore

What's that you're hearing, there on the phone
Is it something strange you hear

Does it sound like someone's listening
Does silence bring fear
Have you been frightened, by that feeling
That some stranger knows your mind
They say we live in freedom
Are we so blind

We must believe, you must believe, you must believe it
There are no secrets anymore
There are no secrets anymore
And it's a sad day
There are no secrets anymore
