

Remember Maine, The Hunt Club

It's nice to see you again
I love what you've done with your hair
The way it falls on your cheeks
And your eyes reflect one thousand bleeding hearts,
You ask me why I'm scared,
Does it seem fair?

This ordinary voice yields ordinary features
Which insist on your interest,
You insist on your interest.
Are you interested?

Wait just one minute before you leave,
I won't let you walk away, and I
Know what you're thinking before you speak
Persuasive charms, they're not working.

Am I not the one that hurts?
Am I not the one that bleeds?
And these timely conversations
Cover all familiar themes

Am I not the one that hurts?
Am I not the one that bleeds?
Will these timely discussions
Accomplish anything?

And I'd love to believe you,
And I'm dying with concern,
But we're not getting better,
And our lives are getting worse.

Is it too much to ask
From a girl who sees the difference,
Are we wasting time?
Are we wasting time?
Am I wasting time?

Hope you say

Wait just one minute before you leave,
I won't let you walk away, and I
Know what you're thinking before you sleep
Persuasive charms, they're not working.

Am I not the one that hurts?
Am I not the one that bleeds?
And these boring conversations cover
All familiar themes.

Am I not the one that hurts?
Am I not the one that bleeds?
Will these timely discussions
Accomplish anything?

Am I not the one that hurts?
Am I not the one that bleeds?
And these boring conversations cover
All familiar themes.

Am I not the one that hurts?
Am I not the one that bleeds?
And these timely discussions,
They accomplish anything,

Will these timely discussions,
They accomplish anything?
Will these timely discussions
Accomplish anything, oh, anything?
