

remme, half a world away (feat. Clara Mae)

I remember Sunday morning we were up at 10am
Put my clothes on, made you breakfast in bed

We took a shower, for an hour, on our bikes at 12am
Through the city, you're so pretty in your oversized shirt

Every minute of the day, the memories we made are stuck inside my head
We were running out of time
I tried to change your mind, again and again but you left

Now you're half a world away
You know I wanted you to stay
But now I'm listening to the rain
In the dead of night

I just want to let you know
That if you ever feel alone
I'd still jump on my bike and go
Even if you are half a world away

Are you home yet, watching TV, eating dinner by yourself?
Are you happy now the memories are slowly fading?
I wanna tell you that I miss you, that I hate being here alone
Write a message, wanna send it but I don't

Cause you're half a world away
You know I wanted you to stay
But now I'm listening to the rain
In the dead of night

I just want to let you know
That if you ever feel alone
I'd still jump on my bike and go
Even if you are half a world away

Half a world away
And I'm thinking bout you
In your favorite clothes
And the freckles on your back that only I know
Or at least that's is what I hope

Half a world away
You know I wanted you to stay
But now I'm listening to the rain
In the dead of night

I just want to let you know
That if you ever feel alone
I'd still jump on my bike and go
Even if you are half a world away