

Rentokill, The Political Aspect Of Unpolitical Thinking

There's a checkbox left in the corner of a life kept in narrow confines.

There's a marker waiting for choices, while indifference and joy get combined.

There's a million minds tied-up by routine, waiting for something to sample attraction.

That's the selfish conformist potentially in action.

Like the self-centered torment inside, there's a carefully hidden connection, like a heartbeat inside

I keep feeding the global transactions and my righteousness straight underlined.

Is there anyone to face the facts?

We're waiting for positive changes to happen.

Reaction remote controlled by unseen faction.

Fake.

Abstraction.

Stronghold of our civilization.

Do we disclaim existence of network relations?

Do we disclaim we're under control?

There's a checkbox left on the backside, that's for breaking the narrow confines.

As there's someone to profit from complacency there's no reason to get back in line.

Is there anyone, at anytime, to claim any form of comprehension? anyway, the destiny's defined.

Reaction remote controlled by unseen faction.

Fake.

Abstraction.

Stronghold of society.

We lie to ourselves to prove our imperfection.

Lies we held up high for satisfaction's sake.

There's blooddrops left as i refuel.

There's death around your neck pretending to shine. there's tears inside my chocolate bar but i keep

And wear sweatshop shoes so self-satisfied, so how deny i'm guilty?

(The Political Aspect Of Unpolitical Thinking Lyrics on