

Richard Jacques, Back In Time

Sometimes I ask myself what am I doing here
I think on all the reasons but it's still not clear
I look at places to go, there's nothing near
So take me away from this 'cos this place I'll hardly miss

So take me back in time to another world
Then you can be mine, we don't have to worry
When you're by my side there's nothing I don't know
There's nothing to decide apart from where we want to go

What am I doing now by coming back for more?
Is it me, or have I been here before?
I want to go somewhere that we can explore
Just take me away from here to somewhere that's nowhere near

So take me back in time to another world
Then you can be mine, we don't have to worry
When you're by my side there's nothing I don't know
There's nothing to decide apart from where we want to go

Take me there
Take me anywhere you want to go
To a place that we both know

I'm going, I'm going, I'm going...

So take me back in time to another world
Then you can be mine, we don't have to worry
When you're by my side there's nothing I don't know
There's nothing to decide apart from where we want to go
