Richard Marx, Straight From The Heart

The sun's still warm and most days are good The world still turns like you said it would But this pain seems to never let me go And there is really no movin' on There's only going along

And I will always be Better for you loving me
Better for the times we shared
That travel with me everywhere
And I will always try
To hold my head up to the sky
If only just to let you know

That straight from my heart I still miss you so

If I could I would gladly trade A thousand tomorrows for one yesterday There are so many things that I would say You're a part of every memory That lives on in me

Chorus
