

Richard Thompson, You dream too much

She came down the stairs in her cocktail dress She fell on her food like a lioness There was ringing