Richard Wright, Night Of A Thousand Furry Toys

Now you feel it, a shiver and you begin Frozen breath that scrapes across the skin And a sound you've never heard before, you screaming

Welcome to the world of random noise Where you simply haven't got a choice When they push your levers and pull your strings

It's another world, it's a better world that we bring

Here you are on the planet of hot and cold Where you'll do as exactly as you're told

In a world of a 1000 furry toys You can hear the screams Of little girls and boys It's a charming noise If you really want that kind of thing, mama

Now you feel it, a shiver and you've begun When they pull those strings how you'll start to run! And there's no stepping off or stepping down

It's another world and it's a better world, That's what we have found