

Richie Aufrichtig, Limits At Infinity

Everyday I write the same old song
Everyday the words just seem so wrong
Walking down the streets that is to make me feel at home
There's nothing left for me but the ringing of a telephone
I used to think that time would never make this feel so fast
But I look back and see your love the things that I've passed
I wish that I could stop this feeling running through my bones
The emptiness inside of me is making me feel so alone

When I try to represent
The world in which I represent
All rise
The way in which we see is falling over me
For you I would die tonight
If you'd hold me
For you I would die tonight
If you'd only be my melody
If you'd be my melody

Do you cry yourself to sleep, oh, every night
Thinking of all the boys who wanna be there by your side
I must confide: you should

When I try to represent
This world we present
All rise
The way in which we see is falling over me
For you I would die tonight
If you'd hold me
For you I would die tonight
If you'd only be my melody
If you'd be my melody

Where will I go when all of this is gone
No more loneliness or words to fill my songs
It'll all be gone for me

When I try to represent
This world which we present
All rise
The way in which we see is falling over me
For you I would die tonight
If you'd hold me
For you I would die tonight
If you'd only be my melody
If you'd be my melody

12341234

It's starting again
I must be spilling all the rum (?)
Oh both where I can see (?)
It's hard enough to breath when you're not here
Now I can't believe
That what I perceive
To be the future may never be here
The yearning of love
From some God above
Is calling me down to the homeland

Now I'm not far from where I started
In this barricade of emotional hearts
It's not fair to tell me where
You wanted me in the dark

As I run to your side
Everyone knows
Love's just a show
Of emotions that spill from the top of our hearts
I want to know where my love goes

Now I'm not far from where I started
In this barricade of emotional hearts
It's not fair to tell me where
You wanted me in the dark
As I run to your side
Everyone knows
Love's just a show
Of emotions that spill from the top of our hearts
I want to know where my love goes

But when I try to represent
This world which we present
All rise
The way in which we see is falling over me
For you I would die tonight
If you'd hold me
For you I would die tonight
If you'd only be my melody
If you'd be my melody