

Rick Roberts, Captain

Once I was livin' for no one but me
Caught in the current of some restless sea
The tempest still rages,
But now I'm all right
'Cause I found the Captain,
And he showed me the light
He is my Captain, I am his crew
I weigh the anchor, he sails me through
And when we are gathered
On that further shore
The Captain will call me
To walk through that door
Somebody told me I was wastin' my time
They said the Captain was all in my mind
But I don't believe it,

I know they're wrong
And though I still haven't seen him,
I know I will later on
Look away starboard, look away west
He is the harbor that shelters you best
And when the stormy night's faded away
We can sail on, we can sail on,
We can sail on to a brighter new day
He is my captain, I am his crew
I weigh the anchor, he sails me through
And when we are gathered
On that further shore
The captain will call me
To walk through that door
