Rick Springfield, Why

I don't know how To tell you who I am Try to justify You'd still deny I'm a man

I never understood it So I don't expect you to But I can't change now Love, just for you

Maybe it's better That you know at last Oh I am sorry It all happened so fast

We might have lasted longer If I told you when we met But it's an old song For you to forget

Why did you love me more Lord did I let her down Why did she never understand me Whey did she love me Lord did I let her down Why is it so hard to be yourself

I never understood it So I don't expect you to But I can't change now Love, just for you

Maybe it's better That you know at last Oh I am sorry It all happened so fast

We might have lasted longer If I told you when we met But it's an old song For you to forget

Why did you love me more Lord did I let her down Why did she never understand me Whey did she love me Lord did I let her down Why is it so hard to be yourself