Ride, Chelsea Girl

Take me for a ride away from the places I have known If I stay around I'll just remember I'm alone There's someone in my memory making me move on What was grey and hazy, is black and white now I have gone

Drive me up to London now it's got too dark to see My waiting is over, there's no visitor for me Never let me talk to you, destroy the frozen past It's a different time now things are moving much too fast

Float by today, now it's turning to grey Raining my doubts let my thoughts slip away You must have something and what it is I don't know You must have something 'cause I can't let you go
