Riot, Johnny's Back

What's the use of moving on Maybe here's where i belong I've had my fill of life's uncertainties You think too much they say your strange They even raised the drinking age This place has gone to hell since i been away But now this time i'll do it right Yeah let's start tonight Make the call and see who's still around Don't look now but Johnny's back again I am your man I paid the price i'll take that slide again Nothing stays the same Tell the boys to step aside Tell the girls to form a line The king is back to claim the land again Wanna light? Let's get it open Need to love i am the one Time to remember how we played the game But now this time i'll do it right Yeah let's start tonight Make the call and see who's still around Don't look now but Johnny's back again I am your man I paid the price i'll take that slide again Nothing stays the same Tell the boys to jump inside tonight we're gonna ride It's time to show'em how its really done You ever play - you never win You don't even know what's happening Until the end and then your race has run This time we'll do it right Yeah let's start tonight Make the call and see who's still around But now this time i'll do it right Yeah let's start tonight Make the call and see who's still around Don't look now but Johnny's back again I am your man I paid the price i'll take that slide again Nothing stays the same
