

Rise Against, The Art Of Losing

I'm not fucking blind to the way that you talk around the truth not just what you say but what you do played this tug of war way too fucking long like every time again I've lost you've won
you took advantage of the trust that I gave took my forgiveness
rubbed it back in my face reaching for words but there's nothing to say I'm left to wonder
will this ever be the same this rage
burning through my veins regret consumes my mind cutting deeply like a razor blade will I live to see another day without questioning your motives with constant doubt
you took advantage of the trust that I gave
took my forgiveness
rubbed it back in my face
reaching for words but there's nothing to say
I'm left to wonder
will this ever be the same and as we sit back waiting for these scars to heal try to convince ourselves that this that this isn't real will you allow me forget your past or will you always hang it over my head