

Rise Against, The dirt whispered

She got down on hands and knees, One ear against the ground, Holding her breath to hear something