

Rob Rock, Hold The Line

I see you standing in your garden full of stone
Wrapped around your heart so you will never be alone
Can't you see I want to give you all you need
Don't you know by now
There's no future in the past when life goes by so fast

Just hold the line (hold the line)
Life's a journey til the end of time (hold the line)
And soon the sun will rise

Your sanctuary is hanging from a chain
Wrapped around your neck
But it won't take away the pain
Seems to me you don't know what to believe
You should know by now
When the sands of wasted time leave you high and dry

Just hold the line (hold the line)
Life's a journey til the end of time (hold the line)
And soon the sun will rise
Just hold the line (hold the line)
Life's a journey til the end of time (hold the line)
And soon the sun will shine