Rob Rock, In The Night

I can't believe all the time that passed between our lives Just yesterday it was a dream too far to come true I've fallen for the last time, I can see the sun it's in your eyes I've waited for a lifetime just to have you here by my side

In the night, I feel you hold me tight I feel my love's alive, as you're taking me through the night

Taken for granted, taken for a ride across that line Into the crossfire between body, soul, and you're mind Emotion is a fine line, you can be deceived when you spill the wine Blinded by a compromise, you can throw away so much time

But we can make a run for heaven now

In the night, I feel you hold me tight I feel my love's alive, as you're taking me through the night In your eyes I see there's no disguise and now I realize That I finally found paradise

In the night

In the night
I've fallen for the last time
I've waited for a lifetime
Blinded by a compromise
Taking me through the night