

Robben Ford, Rugged Road

When I lost my way, found myself on rugged road
With a head full of trouble carryin' a heavy, heavy load
I was stumblin' blind, goin down that rugged road and no one could help me I had to walk that road alone

When I met my friend, he said brother can I help you please
I know you got worries maybe some that I can ease

It's a long long way and you might need some company but I just couldn't hear him and he just let me be

My father before me, walked that road the same as I
He had his bad and his good times, and one day he had to die
People I made my way, and now I'm standin' in the sun
With my struggle behind me, my life has just begun
