

Robben Ford, Say What's On Your Mind

You've got to say what's on your mind, don't be afraid to show it
Say what's on your mind or how will I know it?
There's so little time, say what's on your mind

The last time we were together, such a sadness in your eyes
Behind the poise, small talk and make-up, I could see what you labored so hard to disguise
What we both know; there's so much that's unsaid, though we try not to let it show
Too many words go unspoken now, we sit in silence and don't ask why
Come on baby, we can't let this time roll by

Say what's on your mind, don't wait another day
Say what's on your mind, let love show us the way
Things will work out fine, if you just say what's on your mind
Say what's on your mind

Seems like it's been such a long time, waiting for this story to unfold

We've got love here at our fingertips, all we've got to do is take a hold

Now I'm looking for affirmation, I can't assume what I've got to know
But you leave me mostly to speculation, about the love you feel when you don't tell me so
How many years has it been now?
Yet how much do we really know, give me a sign, help me to understand
Please don't leave me guessing, tell me what you see, it doesn't have to be such a mystery

Tell me what's on your mind, let your heart have it's say
Say what's on your mind, don't let another chance slip away
There's too little time, say what's on your

Say what's on your mind, don't be afraid to show it
Say what's on your mind or how will I know it?
There's so little time, say what's on your mind
