Robert Earl Keen, These Years

Down the hill
Through the light
Past the city jail
I watch and walk
Every night
I wondered who to tell

How can I tell my father? He's been gone all these years I couldn't tell my father I couldn't bear the tears

I was lost In a rage Didn't ever mean to be Now the cost Has set the stage And it will bury me