

Robert Grenier, To Who Did You Belong

I see you driving on the freeway
Counting your money in your head
You have forgotten where you are now
This is the land of the dead

I see you fighting with each other
You try to play a different game
You did not love them like a brother
Now every day it is the same

Did you let them push you around?
Did you fight back and hold your ground?
When they all tried to beat you down
Did you take it without making a sound?

I see you going through the motions
Of the life you used to know
Forgotten dreams could fill the oceans
It's only you that makes it so

Did you let them tell you you were wrong?
Did you listen when they said move along?
Before you left to follow your own song
Who did you carry when you felt so strong?

To who did you belong x4
