

Robert Pollard, Whiskey Ships

Should I offer you over?
Is it best not to pain?
We could ship out our shadow lives
So come lonely

Who knows when one of them should fall
You know without them I am small
Without them I'd go through withdrawal

I'd hear the talking through the wall
Without them I'm not brave at all

When I offer you over
Come lonely