Robert Pollard, Whiskey Ships

Should I offer you over? Is it best not to pain? We could ship out our shadow lives So come lonely

Who knows when one of them should fall You know without them I am small Without them I'd go through withdrawal

I'd hear the talking through the wall Without them I'm not brave at all

When I offer you over Come lonely