

Robert Wyatt, Just As You Are

[Monica Vasconcelos]

It's that look in your eyes
Telling me lies
So many promises broken
What can I do?
What should I do?
Try to love you just as you are

'cause I'm never going to change a thing about you
Never ever going to change a thing about you
Try to love you just as you are

Should I leave, Should I stay
Should I call it a day
There's so much to say that's unspoken
In your way you've been true
But all I can do
Try to love you just as you are

'cause I'm never going to change a thing about you
No I'm never ever going to change a thing about you
Try to love you just as you are

[Robert Wyatt]

It's that look in your eyes
I know you despise me
For not being stronger
What can I do?
What should I do?
I've always loved you just as you are

And I've never tried to change a thing
Never tried to change a thing about you
Always loved you just as you are

Will you leave, will you stay?
There may come a day
When I'm weak and I'm stupid no longer
In my way I've been true
I've lived just for you
I've always loved you just as you are

I've never tried to change a thing
Never tried to change a thing about you
Always loved you just as you are
