Rodney Crowell, Best Years Of Our Lives

THE BEST YEARS OF OUR LIVES WRITER RODNEY CROWELL

When I was young and restless I wasted so much time Halfway stoned and halfway out of my mind Well I don't feel that much different though now I realize These are the best years of our lives These are the best years that we're living in And I know that someday later we're gonna reach the end Though time stacks up against us the fire inside still thrives These are the best years of our lives These are the best years that we're living through Then I know that someday later you're gonna know that too There's so much more to living now than the kind of car we drive These are the best years of our live these are the best years of our live
