Why do we run in this race with each other
I can do anything better than you
Do you believe in the laws of the jungle
The weak can be strong, well you won't last long
One day you'll understand why Too late to give it a try
Back at home they wonder why I never call
Now we're through with it all
One day when everything's out of the way
Only the memories stay
We'll both be wondering who, when or where
But we don't really care, then we'll wonder
One day you'll realize why Just when you've given up trying
One day you're gonna go back to the place
Check it out just in case, and you'll wonder
I won't be the loser No, that just won't do
I won't be the one to lose you
