

Roger Daltrey, The Way Of The World

You live for yourself and you think your a star
But nobody knows who you are.
Your lying a lie, that put you alone, but you know well that's the way of the world

They try to get threw your blanket of fear
You never believe their sincere.
Your smile is a shadow, your eyes tell it all,
but I suppose that's the way of the world

You take all your money, and give nothing away
It don't realize the game that you play
You know you can't do it alone
You know you can't do it alone

You take all your money, and give nothing away
You don't realize the game that you play
You know you can't do it alone
You know you can't do it alone

Stop fighting something that just isn't there
No need to worry we care.
So relax and enjoy it you'll make it for sure
Because you know that's the way of the world
That's the way
You know that's the way
You know that's the way
You know that's the way
Well you know that's the way
You know that's the way of the world
