

Roger Daltrey, Under A Raging Moon

by John Parr/ Julia Downes

1985 Carlin Music Corp.

All rights in the USA and Canada administered by Cabert Music Inc./ Polythemus Music, ASCAP.

In the searchlights
you could see us as we circled around
Down below us you were screaming
I could hear the sound
I could see your arms
Reaching up to me

Like a demon, I could feel the madness
Running through the crowd
We were freedom
From the moment that we hit the ground
And the wild man,
He laid the thunder down

Do you remember me?
Like I remember you
In a sea of hands
You came shining through
In the mist of time
I can see it now
All my life I will remember this
(Under a raging moon)
For this moment I was born for it
(Under a raging moon)

(Under a raging moon)
We were flying there
(Under a raging moon)
We saw Zion there
It ended all too soon
Under a raging moon

We were out there
When they handed us the rebel's crown
All the headlines,
All they tried to do was tear us down
But the wild man,
He didn't fool around

Do you remember me?
Cause I remember you
Yeah you won my love
When the dream came true
When my blood ran high--
I can hear it now
All my life I will remember it
(Under a raging moon)
For this moment I was born for it
(Under a raging moon)

(Under a raging moon)
We were flying boy
(Under a raging moon)
It's worth dying for
It ended all too soon
Under a raging moon

Taking me back to better times

We never read the danger signs
Why are the young,
Why are the young so blind?

Do you remember me?
Cause I remember you
Yeah you won my love
When the dream came true

All my life I will remember this
(Under a raging moon)
From this moment I was born for this
(Under a raging moon)
All my life I will remember this
(Under a raging moon)
For this moment I was born for it
(Under a raging moon)

Do you remember me?
Do you remember me?
Do you remember me?