Rosanne Cash, Roses In The Fire

I throw your roses in the fire
To make the flames a little higher
I watch your roses turn to dust
I know no man that I can trust

I throw your roses in the fire 'Cause I burn with pity and desire I'll be your vision dressed in black Who won't be back

Another woman's on the telephone Pick it up Tell her you're home I see your face turn into broken glass Talking slow Thinking fast

I throw your roses in the fire No one could say i didn't try I watch your roses fall like tears I've crawled this path for all these years

I throw your roses in the fire To burn away the old desire We were a desperate pair of souls So let me go

Another woman has her point of view Let her talk Now that we're through i see your face retreat behind the glass

Oh I'll kill you if we can't be friends
I'll bleed like diamonds running through your hands
I'll be a bitter taste you can't forget
And I won't leave this world until you relent

I throw your roses on the fire To burn away the old desire I watch your roses turn to dust I know no man that i can trust

I throw your roses in the fire
To make the flames a little higher
I'll be your vision dressed in black
Who won't be back
I won't be back
I won't be back