

Rose Maddox, Each Season Changes You

Like the weather your heart changes with each season
Springtime summer fall and winter too
Though I know I'll never understand the reason
I still wonder why each season changes you

It was springtime when I found you like the flowers
And our love grew warmer with the summer sun
In the fall I could see our love was changing
It broke my heart to see what wintertime had done
Like the weather your heart...

[banjo - steel]

Came the spring again you said that you were sorry
And the summer brought a golden memories
In the fall I saw your love was changing and the winter brought the same old misery
Like the weather your heart...

[mandolin - fiddle]

Like the weather your heart...
