

Roy Buchanan, When A Guitar Plays The Blues

You know you get the strangest feelin'
Yea, when a guitar plays the blues
You know you get the strangest little feelin'
Yea, when a guitar plays the blues

You know your body gets a message
Yea, your soul has got to groove

You know you might even batch your eye
Yea, you might even snatch a cry
Yea the feelin' you're feelin' within ya,
Well you know you just can't hide
You got to bend it like that [guitar bend]
You kinda' squeeze it like this [guitar squeeze]

And it reaches down inside you
Yea, your soul, it just can't resist
'Cause you get the strangest kinda' feelin'
Yea, when a guitar plays the blues
You know your body gets a message
Yea, your soul, your soul, your soul has got to move

[guitar solo]

And when the music's over
Mmm, it's time to turn out the lights
You know the blues goes home with you
Yea, that soothes you through the night

You get the strangest kinda' feelin'
Yea, when a guitar plays the blues
You know your body gets a message
And your soul, your soul, your soul has got to move

[guitar solo]
