

Roy Drusky, He Had It On His Mind

(All the time he had it on his mind)

I never thought he'd try to take you from me

A life my friend would never be that kind

He make believe that he could never want you when all the time he had it on his mind

He had it on his mind all the time but kept telling me desire had made me blind

As a friend he couldn't see how I could love you

When all the time he had it on his mind

[steel]

Who think of times I've trusted you together

Now tomorrow the wedding bells will chime

To you and our best friend I'll be a stranger cause all the time he had it on his mind

He had it on his mind...

Yes all the time he had it on his mind
