

Roy Drusky, Our Everlasting Love Has Died

There's something wrong now all the feeling's gone now

There's nothing left now but a trace of cry

And it's too late now we're face to face with fate now

Dreams lyin' state now our everlasting love has died

[steel]

All hope is scattered now in a world that's shattered now

The things that matter now seem so hard to hide

But it's too late now let's don't turn to hate now

There's nothing more at stake now our everlasting love has died