

Roy Drusky, Pick Of The Week

You only say hello so you can say goodbye
These two words must make your life complete
You pick out the hearts that break to make your ego high
And I was just your pick of the week
For you could see that I would be the perfect fool
Too wrapped around your finger nice and neat
And there would be no end to what I take from you
So I was just your pick of the week

A heart that you can break is all you're looking for
One that you can trample at your feet
Even after breaking mine I know there'll still be more
I was just your pick of the week
For you could see...
Yes I was just your pick of the week
