

Roy Drusky, So Much Got Lost

Sometimes I get to thinking of another time when we had so little but you were mine
Now so much has changed in all the price the years have caused Somewhere between then and now so much got lost
We want the world lost each other but what good is one without the other
We threw love to the wind and let it be tossed
And in the calm after the storm so much got lost
So much gets lost when you try to gain and what has gone won't come back again
We burned our bridges as we crossed
And on the way to the other side so much got lost
And on the way to the other side so much got lost
